O. S. U. Males Not Beau Brummels, Easterners Say

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University
COLUMBUS, Jan. 9.—Six months

That is the opinion of a New York newspaper in regard to the mode of clothing worn by Ohio State university men compared to the styles in

What a funny way to escape a
COLD

Prevent a cold by rinsing the hands with Listerine before each meal? Sounds strange doesn't it? Not when you know the facts, however.

During the day your hands accumulate germs. Ordinary washing with soap and water doesn't destroy them. So, carried to the mouth on the hands, they develop, attacking the mucous membrane. A cold or sore throat or both frequently follows. Full strength Listerine, is powerful against germs—kills most varieties in 15 seconds. Therefore its use on the hands before each meal is simply another wise precaution against colds and sore throat. Mothers handling children's food should particularly bear this in mind. Write for our great free book, "Personal Hygiene." Address Dept. S. 37, Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

And for SORE THROAT
Listerine built its reputation on its ability to quickly check sore throat which is also caused by germs. At the first symptoms of trouble, gargle with it full strength. Repeat the treatment frequently.

the eastern schools. Styles that appear on the campuses at Princeton and Yale fail to become adopted at Ohio in mass until many months later," the Gotham newspaper states. A general backwardness to accept the new and reject the old styles is clearly evident at the Buckeye institution.

Princeton men are given the credit in the collegiate world as style setters for college men attire but until the recent allegation by the newspaper, Ohio State men were supposed to have followed closely in the footsteps of the Princetonians and occasionally to create a new style themselves to be adopted by the collegians of the country.

Seek Pattern Modes
A good illustration of the mid-western backwardness in the clothing line, so states the newspaper, is the trench coats which thickly dotted the campus at Ohio State this fall. This particular style of coat gained its height of popularity at Princeton last spring, the paper reports.

After they were in vogue for a long period in the east, Ohio State male students again emulated the Atlantic coast schools in adopting the narrow brim felt hats in gray, brown and green. The narrow brims have now been popularly accepted by the Buckeye students.

While a small number of Ohio State students are still seeking the Oxford grays as the generally accepted type of suits for campus wear, Easterners have already turned from the type to patterned modes. This indicates, adds the paper, that Ohio State is slow in dropping styles as well as being slow in the adoption of new ones.

KIRKPATRICK CLASS MEMBERS ENTERTAIN

KIRKPATRICK, Jan. 9.—The Live Wire Sunday school class of the M. E. church entertained the Hustlers' class at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, Friday night. The early part of the evening was spent in singing, after which a number of indoor games and stunts were enjoyed. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beers, Rev. and Mrs. L. S. Greus, Clarence Briggs, Catherine Weir, Marie Lemke, Roy Beers, Raymond Shields, Donald Shields, Vera Beers, Howard Henry, Henry Remminger and Robert Scott.

Interesting feature of philosophy is that a good deal of it is probably true.

Ritzzy Rosalie

PERHAPS Rosalie's multi-strand necklace of seed pearls is emblematic with its horseshoe-shaped clasp of semi-precious stones. On her wrist are two bracelets with clasp alike. One is formed of pearls and the other of brilliants, and when she does not wear them as bracelets they may be clasped together to make a necklace. ### MARION YOUTH ON PROM COMMITTEE

Marion O. Chenoweth To Assist with O. S. U. Social Affair

COLUMBUS, Jan. 9.—Four students of Marion and vicinity have been named members of committees for the annual Junior Prom at Ohio State university, which will be held some time during the winter term of school.

Marion O. Chenoweth, of Marion, a junior in the School of Journalism, was selected a member of the publicity committee, by Robert P. Gunning, of Chillicothe, chairman of the Prom. Clarence Zinke and John Helber, both of Bucyrus, and Russell H. McNeil, of Kenton, were also selected for committee posts. Zinke, a student in the College of Commerce and

RHEUMATISM IS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

Finds in Master Medicine First and Only Relief After All Else Had Failed

MRS. MAE LUKEMIER

One of the amazing qualities of Konjola is the speed with which it attacks the ailment at the very root, and the quickness of results, even in the obstinate cases that have thwarted every other medicine and treatment tried.

"This fact is proved again by the experience of Mrs. Mae Lukemier, 3028 Wendling Road, Cincinnati, who declares:

"For three years I was a victim of rheumatism, and the pains started from one part of my body to another, finally settling in my knee. At times I could not move about to do my work. I was not only in terrible pain, but was greatly discouraged as medicine after medicine failed to do me the slightest good. A friend who called to see me, for I was not able to get out to see anyone, recommended Konjola. Indeed, she insisted that I give this new medicine a trial. Well, before one-half of the first bottle was gone I knew that I had found the remedy I had always needed. A full treatment—six bottles—banished the last sign of rheumatism. The failing organs were cleansed and put to work; the pains were driven from my system, and today I am better in every way than I have been for years. I can think—three years of agony ended in six weeks. No wonder Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, the liver and kidneys are cleansed and put to work, and a new state of health is reached. Such a rare number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical compound, until now Konjola is the most highly recommended medicine that is known in this section. Konjola is sold by dealers in medicine and health products, and is available in all sections of the country.

Administration, was named chairman of the "Prom" committee, Bishop, of the College of Engineering a member of the refreshments committee, and McNeill, of the College of Liberal Arts, a member of the tickets committee.

The Junior Prom is considered the most important social event at Ohio State university during the entire school term.

and over a Million miles of Testing

Never has a new motor car come to the public more thoroughly proved in every detail than The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History.
Years ago, the Chevrolet Motor Company designed and built its first experimental six-cylinder motor. This far-sighted step was taken because Chevrolet engineers knew that the six-cylinder motor is inherently the most perfectly balanced motor—the ideal power plant to meet the growing public demand for greater reserve power, faster getaway and, above all—smooth, quiet performance.
During the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors—representing every conceivable type—were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground. This constituted one of the greatest series of tests ever conducted with any automobile. From time to time, the experimental models were torn down for inspection, redesigning and further testing—until the present motor was developed and pronounced correct.
While the new six-cylinder motor was in process of development, other Chevrolet engineers were perfecting other parts of the chassis. And another great automotive organization—the Fisher Body Corporation—was devoting its gigantic resources to the creation of the finest, sturdiest and most beautiful bodies ever offered on a low-priced automobile.
As a result, the Outstanding Chevrolet offers an order of well-balanced excellence that is extraordinary in the low-price field. From every standpoint—power, speed, smoothness, acceleration and quietness—its performance is truly amazing. Its handling ease and roadability are exceptional. Its economy of operation is so great that it delivers better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline. And its outstanding beauty, smartness and luxury are exciting widespread admiration.
You owe it to yourself to see and inspect this remarkable car. Come in today!

Sends Greetings

SENDS GREETINGS.
Marion Rotarians have received literature from the Rotary Club of Wellington, New Zealand.
The club, in the fifty-third Rotarian district, is making a plea for cooperation in forging the links of a chain of international fellowship by the exchange of correspondence, literature and information on various districts.
The literature sent to the local club included a copy of the Wellington Chamber of Commerce directory and the Christmas number of the Auckland Weekly News, an illustrated periodical.

Score One for Florida

FLORIDA is now one up on its rival state of California in the "battle of the century."
The latest development in the battle of the states comes as a result of a letter received by Clifton Lower, Marion druggist, from his brother Sterling, now in California with his wife, who is in poor health.

Sterling, it appears, took his wife out west where all his are previously cured by the hot, rainy weather. They say it is not hot in the state of endless oranges that the judges in the courtroom hold sessions while attired in bathing suits.

However, according to Mr. Lower, all this high-sounding advertisement is nothing less than the old-fashioned bunk. He advises any Marion citizen who is contemplating going to "Cal" in order to avoid the cold weather to stay right here and keep warm.

If, however, you insist on going to the west bring your fur overcoat and plenty of warm socks, according to Lower's advice. Above all don't forget your winter wool socks and gaiters.

The last word from Mr. Lower is that the wife is going to Florida, where, say Floridians will tell you, any and all sickness is certain to be cured.

Observing the Rules

THE lives of men, no matter how far one may go into history, nor how far ahead we may peer into the dim future, have and always will be governed by the rules of convention. Time and again we have tried to break free from the chains, but there is always a loop-hole. Convention ruled on the streets of Marion the other day. A very charming young woman was standing on the corner waiting for a bus, when a man walked up. He hesitated, lifted his hand a little ways toward his hat, and then paused, took a good long look, and walked on. It took but a few seconds for this to happen, but in the meantime the girl steadily returned his look. She seemed disappointed when he went on. Possibly he had met the girl some place, and wasn't quite sure of himself. If it was her place to speak first, she didn't realize it. So they passed each other as strangers, even when both knew that they would have been more pleased if a pleasant word had passed between them. Convention reigned supreme.

The City Bus Service.

While it is possible that sufficient time has not yet elapsed since the inauguration of the city bus service to permit the bus management to determine whether or no all the routes over which it is running its vehicles will be sufficiently remunerative to justify the continuation of the service as now routed, there can be no question of the popularity of the service as a whole with the local public generally.

Patrons of the line have found the buses now, neat and sanitary. They have found that they can enter and leave them far more easily than they could the street cars, and that the buses ride more smoothly and are in every way much more comfortable. Again, patrons have found how much it means to be able to step into the buses from the curb and leave them in the same way, thus eliminating the possibility of being run down by some reckless motorist, of which they always ran the chance while standing in the street awaiting the approach of a street car or alighting from one, as they were compelled to do when they depended on the street car service for transportation. And, in addition to all these advantages, the buses cover more territory.

We said in these columns, something like three years ago, that street car service in cities the size of Marion was doomed, that it would prove unable to compete with the service offered by bus lines. At that time the street car people questioned our view and offered statistics to contradict it, but time is demonstrating its merit. Let it not be taken, however, that we are patting ourselves upon the back by holding out that the view at that time expressed was original with us. For it was not. What we said at the time was simply the reflection of what experience had demonstrated in other cities of about our size, where bus service had superseded street car lines, and the expressions of experts who had given the matter extended observation and study.

We believe the bus service in this city has been operated sufficiently long and in a sufficiently satisfactory manner to carry conviction to the people of this community that so far as service goes, they have profited immensely by the supplanting of the street car service by the bus service.

Diverting Ocean Mail.

The order of Second Assistant Postmaster General Glover limiting the mail put aboard the fast Cunard liner, Berengaria, to letters exclusively addressed for despatch by that vessel, naturally drew out very general editorial criticism throughout the country, for, coming at the time it did, it was just as naturally assumed that the withholding of the mail from the big Cunarder was in retaliation for the withdrawing of the Caronia, of the same line, from the Atlantic service and the putting of her into the service between New York and Havana.

"Service" has so long been the watchword of the mail service, that it aroused surprise that mail should be withheld from the Berengaria, a six-day boat, and ordered consigned to the De Grasse, of the French line, and the Baltic, of the White Star line, both of which are much slower vessels.

Thus it was pleasing to learn through a statement by Mr. Glover, who, as second assistant postmaster general, has charge of the foreign mails, that the order to shift the mail from the Berengaria was issued because that vessel had arrived at her dock in New York thirty hours late and was not expected to depart for Europe until Sunday. When informed Friday that the Berengaria had expected her coaling and re-stocking and would sail Saturday morning, the order to withhold the mails from her was rescinded before it was placed in execution, and the 2,200 sacks of mail which were to have been diverted to the De Grasse and the Baltic were put aboard the Cunarder.

In commenting on the matter, however, another phase of the handling of ocean mails was brought out by Postmaster General Now, who, after stating that the government has no plan for changing the transatlantic mail service and that no new policy could be adopted without his sanction, expressed the view that the protests of American business men and the Cunard line were without justification, as a little investigation would have shown that the arrangement was only temporary.

"It is distressing indeed," said the postmaster general, "that those who are so much interested to see that the English lines get all the American mails do not protest against the action of the English authorities in despatching mail from Europe."

"Every Christmas, American mails come late because the English authorities do not see fit to send it via American boats. For instance, the Olympic arrived here on Wednesday before Christmas with 15,000 bags of American mail. The Leviathan came a day later with 4,000 bags. Mail was not placed aboard the Leviathan, but was held some time so that it might be given to the Majestic, which arrived here on Christmas day with 16,000 bags. This has happened every Christmas and investigation might show that American boats get very little mail from Europe."

As the Atlantic transportation charge runs from three dollars a sack for third-class mail to also dollars a sack for first-class mail, it may be seen from the postmaster general's statement that Great Britain has been profiting right handsomely by the little mail diverting game she has been working on mails coming this way. In the light of Postmaster General Now's exposure of the practice she has been following for years in diverting mail from United States liners to liners flying her own flag, little regret could be felt should our postoffice department do a little diverting occasionally to cause her to realize that we resent the practice of which she charges her guilty.

The Berengaria sailed just after midnight, Saturday morning, and that closed this particular incident so far as the handling of the mail on hand at the time is concerned, but the matter has called rather general attention to the subject of American foreign mails and a number of members of congress have expressed the view that, when the American merchant marine reaches a greater development, there should be some regulation which would give preference to mail contracts to American vessels. That Great Britain, at least, would be stopped from complaining regarding such a regulation was made plain when it was recalled that, in 1847, when the United States had a powerful merchant marine, England tried to prevent American vessels from carrying mails by imposing an extra charge on mail carried by American ships.

The Rev. Daniel A. Polling says that "lies were the stuff from which armies built morale." Uh-huh! And we have seen them used very effectively in a number of so-called "movements for great good" during the past year or two.

A Chicago jury rendered a "not guilty" verdict in the case of a man, charged with attempted burglary, who, equipped with a burglar's tools, was caught dead to rights on the roof of a home up there. Some awful kinks have been put into the general system in which the American jury system was at one time held.

Four of the Birger gang out in Marion, Illinois, have changed their plans of "not guilty" of the murder of Highway Patrolman Price and his wife, and thrown themselves upon the mercy of the court and the court, to demonstrate his mercy for the public, gave them life sentences making them ineligible for parole for fifty-eight years, which comes pretty close to our idea of justice.

The district court of appeals down in Washington holds that a weapon is unlawfully concealed when deposited in such proximity to a person as to be convenient of access and within reach. It does not have to be concealed on his person, but may be in a pocket of an automobile or hidden under the seat of the machine. The court's seem just bound to go out of their way to make life safe for the criminal world.

CHORUS: "WHAT! ANOTHER SPHINX?"

Choose Proper Soap.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
It is a real task to take care of a tiny baby. Nobody regrets this, of course. If there is one task in the world that is cheerfully happy, really done it is the care of the baby. The more healthy and delicate the infant and the more real the needs of the child, the more anxious the mother is to give her whole being to its welfare.

Nothing is more important than the care of the baby's skin. You know how sensitive your skin is—how it suffers in cold or extreme heat. You know how it feels to have the skin chapped. Strong soap will turn every sore spot you have into a flame of fire.

Washing the baby is a real art. Some mothers go about this matter with all the confidence in the world. But others, poor souls, are in a fever of fear that the baby may fall or be injured in some other way.

But it is not my purpose today to describe the bathing of the child. All I wish to say about this is to point out the importance of selecting a soap that does not irritate the skin of your baby.

We differ in our reactions to drugs and chemicals. One skin will accept certain applications and refuse under them. Another skin will burn and burn and become inflamed under the same application. On this account a soap must be selected that is acceptable to the baby's skin.

Too strong a soap washes away the oil of the skin. Then it is left unprotected and is sure to smart and burn in consequence.

After bathing the skin must be thoroughly dried. Moisture will leave the surface liable to chapping. The use of powder after bathing has a scientific foundation. It guarantees perfect dryness of the skin.

A baby should not be left in wet garments. Immediate attention is important, because without it the skin will chafe and chafe.

Petroleum oil has its uses as an application to the skin of the body after bathing. It should not be used on the face, but it quite all right to apply elsewhere. It is soothing and protective, too.

If the baby's skin is simply it may be due to heavy clothing, causing excessive perspiration. This is likely to cause a rash to appear.

Another cause for skin eruption is wrong feeding. The milk mixture may not be right, or the milk itself may not be acceptable. It is a bad idea to change the milk supply if the skin is not clear. This simple thing may solve a problem.

Nothing is sweeter or more appealing than a clean, smiling baby. To have it attractive the skin must be perfect, and no effort is too great to make this possible.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES
K. M. Q.—I am troubled with constipation, what do you advise?

A.—This may be due to a little indigestion. Your diet should be corrected and the intestinal tract kept clear. For details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—Perhaps a circulatory condition is responsible. Sometimes heart or kidney trouble may produce swelling. Consult your family doctor for a thorough examination.

H. C. Q.—What causes prickly heat? Is it harmful in any way?
A.—Hot weather and easily irritated skin produce this symptom. Keep the parts clean and use a good antiseptic dusting powder. No.

OF SOVEREIGN IMPORT.
There will be before the incoming legislature for consideration a mass of proposed measures of varying degrees of importance, but among them all there will be none of greater importance than the proposed bill to put through the new Ohio code of criminal procedure.

Crime is challenging all government. Whatever possibly may be done to meet this challenge and so assist to conservation of the integrity of law and orderly society should be considered to be matter of primary importance. The legislature of Ohio at this time may greatly aid in the work of minimizing criminal activities in the commonwealth by promptly placing the code of criminal procedure on a bill which assumes to protect the interests of the state and of accused persons, to the end that equal justice to all may be administered.

The committee which has prepared the recommendations of the bill and the committee of the legislature are as one in their faith in the proposal. The bars of the state are back of it. It unanimously has been approved by the State Bar Association. Eminent students of criminology who have registered their approval of it. In its preparation able lawyers have devoted long months of time in intensive research. It is worthy to be placed in such a battle against the assaults of those who prey upon it or who disregard and break laws intended to regulate the civil life in the interests of civilized order and progress.

The Legislature already has had occasion to endorse this work of sovereign reform. It here re-emphasizes the necessity for its favorable consideration by the legislature at an early time as may be possible. We believe it to be the duty of the press of the state to join unanimously in urging the legislature to support this all-important measure. It is one designed to stand between the public and a growing menace. Unless this menace shall be curbed or, so far as may be possible, removed, we shall have ultimately little need for other legislatures or courts of law.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

YEARS OF LIGHT.
Recent astronomical measurements suggest the imagination.

What speaks of dust are men, mountains, continents, the earth, the sun and the solar system? Contemplation of the vastness of creation, as reported before the American Association for the Advancement of Science at its annual meeting, induces a sensation of insignificance and helplessness from which the only relief seems to be the conception of an all-inclusive creator.

The measuring unit of celestial spaces is the light year. This is the distance light travels in a year, moving at approximately 186,000 miles a second.

The earth is 30,000 light years away from the center of a galaxy containing billions of stars, of which the sun is an ordinary type. This galaxy was all of creation, up to a few years ago.

The entire galaxy is revolving about a center 30,000 light years away from the earth somewhat as the earth itself revolves on its axis—and with incredible speed. This involves the staggering conception of a celestial day of 300,000,000 years, the time required for a single revolution.

But this whole galaxy, in which we are such insignificant particles, itself appears to be only an insignificant part of creation. Millions of light years beyond it are other galaxies, each revolving on its own axis each as significant as that which centers in the Milky way.

And all the galaxies together it appears, form one system of creation which is itself revolving about a center. It is a creation in which there is no near or far no past or future, except as these conceptions have been formed in the human mind.

Beyond the farthest galaxy lies outer space—the abode of nothingness, the nature of which baffles even the astronomical imagination. It is not space in any real sense of the word, for space can exist without points of reference, without objects, to exist between. It is not time, for time is movement in space.

It is the mystical, sublime, unimaginable nothing through which creation works its creating space and time in its path.—Washington Star.

Twenty Years Ago.
It was Saturday.

Rear Admiral Evans held that our battle fleet was unfit for a long trip because of a lack of supply and repair ships.

The Star told of the installation, the night before, of Mrs. Lida B. Gunder as president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans.

Aside from the flagship, Connecticut, which sailed from Messina for Naples, the remainder of the American squadron engaged in Italian earthquake relief sailed to Villefranche, France.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Kennedy, of West Church street.

The name of Scott Town was changed to Meeker.

John I. Court was terribly beaten up by Pearl Kura and the latter's mother. The parties involved resided near Newman's bridge and had had trouble.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MONTROSE.
New York, Jan. 9.—The sinned moths do not always return to the consuming Broadway flame. All over America and in Europe too will be found the scorched who are not even mildly interested in the street that whips the universe. They are content with the fact they had along the primrose path.

There are others, too, whom Broadway honored with its two-minute enthusiasm and who have found happiness elsewhere. Hollywood is filled with former Rialto idols who do not even return to their scenes of triumph for a visit. They are content with their Spanish castles and little patios in Gracie Fields, once a popular hostess of the cafes, lives quietly with her French husband at Fontainebleau. Joan Sawyer, a professional dancer, lives in the same fashion in a small town in the Middle West. Jay O'Brien, a Broadway boulevardier, spends most of his time at St. Moritz.

Jack Carlin, an exhibition dancer, has been self-exiled in Paris ten years. Lou Hauser, once a figure on Broadway, has retired to the peace of a Brittany chateau. Tommy Millard, a crack newspaperman, has his apartment on the Bund in Shanghai. Brooks John, who twanged a banjo for night club patrons for years, now runs a farm in Virginia.

Near Lamy, New Mexico, there lives on a ranch a famous spender who for years "burnt up" Broadway nightly. One dawn in the famous Jack's he put down his highball glass. "This is the bunk," he exclaimed. The crowd at the table laughed, and ordered another drink.

By noon he had all his securities from a vault and that afternoon entrained for Albuquerque—he doesn't know now exactly why he bought a ticket for that place. That's difficult for any one to understand. This was fifteen years ago. He has not set foot on Manhattan since.

In London there is a group that rounds into the Savoy every afternoon for Scotch and soda. They call themselves "The Broadway Exiles." Each was for many years identified with various activities of that street. Not one has returned since leaving it.

One of the most fashionable restaurants in New York lists old-fashioned applebutter on its menu. It is sixty cents a portion and mere dab. I remember when you had to hire a wagon to carry sixty cents' worth home.

A voyager from Paris returned with two dozen shirts made by a Parisian shirtmaker. He had not tried them on but when he did, discovered they were about four sizes too small, so he called a messenger lacking the customary love and kisses. Two weeks later the shirts were returned to the maker, and the shirtmaker with shirts there were a perfect fit, and an object of apology. The good will expedition cost more than $1,000. There is no particular moral to this story except it is our prediction such rare service will in the end not cost the Paris shirtmaker a penny.

On the East Side an old time Sunday touch of the small town prevails. On various streets in the small town when doors are pleasant, a "for hire" team of horses with uncoupled carriages. They are driven by bewhiskered patriarchy in plug hats. The modest sum of fifty cents is charged for a short drive. They are filled with tired tenant mothers and their children.

And there are two places in midtown where smart horse-drawn equipment may be rented by the hour in the small town the prices for a horse and buggy was $1.50 for the first half hour. The New York price is $12 an hour—but a liveried coachman with a plume in his hat is furnished. The horse-drawn cab for theater goers is still considered the ultra of all vehicles. It inspires the ultra Broadway phrase, the carriage trade.

"You are a little more mellow with years," writes a friendly note from New Orleans. "A certain cynicism has given way to clowning and you are better clown than clown." Somehow that makes me feel like one of those old fools who wear a paper cap in a night club. — Copyright, 1923, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Dinner Stories.

Mrs. Newkidd, just returned from mother—"Your wall papering job looks fine, dear, but what are those funny lumps?"

Mr. Newkidd—"Good heavens! I forgot to take down the pictures."

Motorist—"Have you some of that gasoline that stops knocking?"

Service Station Man—"Yes, sir."

Motorist—"Then give my wife a glass."

"A five-hour work day," said Uncle Eben, "may be 'bout all de strain I ought to stand, but a five-hour poker game don't seem like nuffin' at all."

Indignant Diner, in night club—"What is the meaning of this item? 'Note paper, sixpence'?"

Waiter—"That's for the sheet we used in making out the bill, sir."

Sial, Sima and Nife.

BY GARRETT P. SERVICE.
Sial, Sima and Nife. These are not names of Egyptian, Chinese or Polynesian gods, but relatively recent additions to the vocabulary of geologists, and they describe the new prevailing hypothesis about the general internal condition of the earth. They are surely self-descriptive, and we must start by briefly telling what they mean.

Sial is the name given to the outside shell of the earth's crust, supposed to be composed everywhere of the lighter sort of rocks, known as "acid" rocks.

Sima is the corresponding name for the next lower shell, assumed to consist of denser, "basic" rocks.

Nife is the name applied to the still more compact central core of the earth, which some believe is mostly, if not entirely, composed of iron.

These names were constructed by the German geographer and geologist, Suess. Now the middle shell, the sima, is assumed to be in a peculiar state, such that, though it is "not liquid in the ordinary sense," yet the sial—the upper shell on which we live—floats in it like cork in water because of the difference of density. When you meet the word "isostasy," you may know that it refers to this hypothetical "floating" of the upper parts, or outer parts, of the earth in the denser crust beneath, which is at the same time practically solid and potentially "not" both. Trust mathematical physics to lay these extraordinary apparitions of the conceptual world.

Now, a German geologist, Wegener, with a powerful imagination, had, so to speak, made a minicreation of the sial—look at the definition of this word. Suess and other geologists in general had assumed that the earth's crust, the whole earth in compact shell, being some sixty miles thick and underlying the oceans as well as the lands. Wegener insists that the sial covers only about one-third of the globe, and that it is split up and drifted apart over the denser sima, which really does form a complete shell beneath, and is disclosed at the ocean bottom.

Look, says Wegener, at the strange outlines of the Americas on the east, fitting almost perfectly those of Europe-Africa on the west. Once they formed one mass of sial, but the American portion has broken off, and floated away westward on the sea, and the Atlantic ocean, resting on the sima, now fills the gap.

Of course this imagined voyaging of the continents over the surface of the globe is supposed to have begun yesterday. It is a matter involving millions of years. But the hypothesis assumes that it is still going on. The earth's crust may be but a thin, temporary eruption may result from the pulls and squeezes that it brings about.

The sial, sima and nife have been accepted as geological terms to describe the probable tripartite division of the earth's crust into concentric shells; but Wegener's extraordinary hypothesis is still knocking at the door with perhaps not too brilliant prospects of admission. A new test of it has just been suggested. A Dutch geologist, Veening-Melnes, has been applying a new system of pendulum observations to the determination of local variations of gravity—a system by which the observations are made in a submarine—ad he has found an excess of gravity along the western coast of Central America. This would, in a general way, accord with the hypothesis that the continent was prelat westward. Later he has applied his method in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea. He has found indication of horizontal pressure in the northern part of the Gulf, indicating under Porto Rico. If analysis of the observations should show a deficiency of gravity on the Atlantic coast that would be evidence against Wegener's picturesque hypothesis. ### The Way of the World.

BY GRACE PATTERSON.
This country is far from a wilderness and the hunting is no good as it was in the days of Daniel Boone. There are not enough of it to make the safety of sport men a matter of concern. Seth Gordon, conservation director of the Frank Walton lodge has compiled some suggestions for hunters that both beginners and veterans will find with interest.

A human life is worth more than all the game in America—see clearly before shooting.

Be careful with firearms. Firearms are criminal-play safe and avoid accidents.

Helpful recreation and the thrill of the chase are a true sportsman's prime objectives always.

Observation of the law and eradication of the game hog are responsibilities no sportsman can evade.

A few folks with matches kill more game than many shoguns—prevent fires.

Only vandals destroy farmers' fences. Injure the stock or disregard their welfare.

Real sportsmen never try to trap wild farmyard pastures and on trespassers.

Saving ample seed stock, and feeding during the winter time will perpetuate the sport.

A clear conscience at the end of the trip and an invitation to come again beats a tag bag.

Psychologists, at least some of them, tell us that many men and women who are apparently grown up are not really grown up at all. They are suffering from "infantile fixations." Experiences in youth have left a deep impression, and color their action in later years. Symptoms are the habit of forgetting certain names, headaches from apparent cause, and a tendency to dream.

The psychologists may be right. But they might go further. They might tell us that nobody quite grows up. We still have many of the foolish desires of childhood. Dignity or the fear of being laughed at is some sort of timidity restrains us from acting as much like children as we feel. Even at that there are few men who are not "baby" at attacks of infatuation. If you want to prove it, ask their wives.

Statistics show at least one in every eleven women in the United States has a job. This means, of course, in addition to home duties or in place of home duties. The new ways of women, the increasing number who go to work outside the home, is bound to make an amazing change in life in America if it keeps on. Women become economically independent. They grow less dependent in marriage. They are losing their fear of tradition and their respect for the restraints of the men in an earlier generation. Nobody is wise enough to predict what it will mean in human habits, but it is leading to a new and different world. Perhaps a better one, perhaps not.

$5,000,000,000 SOLD
BY U. S. IN YEAR

Balance of About $900,000,000 Due America. Figures Reveal

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The United States has sold $5,000,000,000 worth of goods to the outside world, and bought more than $4,000,000,000 worth in 1928, according to the complete and accurate tally sheet made by O. E. Davis, secretary of the Foreign Trade Council. This leaves a balance of about $900,000,000 due to America, after settling up for the goods brought from foreign customers. For a part of which we may have to take long term promises to pay, but a good share of which is cashed around the European hotels and pleasure resorts by the care-free and liberal-spendings American tourists and pleasure seekers. This is generally referred to as the makings of the invisible trade balance, in which class also appears the thousands of dollars sent over by our industrious foreign residents to their relatives on the other side.

"The high proportion of manufactured goods among American exports, over 70 per cent of the total in 1928, adds a stabilizing factor to our trade, as these are the products that respond to American salesmanship abroad and are carrying us forward each year to new levels of progress," said Davis, in his summary. "This is corroborated in large measure by the American makers of automobiles, sewing machines, farming implements, steel ingots and copper in various forms."

CHICAGO GANGSTER IS SLAIN IN HOME

Second Man Shot While Sitting in Auto; Police Dofied

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—All branches of law enforcement in Chicago and Cook county were shocked today over two sensational shootings that seemed to arena defiance at the recently inaugurated drive of federal agents, state attorney's attaches and city police to "clean up Chicago."

The first shooting centered on the life of Ensign Louis, reputed successor to the leadership of the powerful North Side gang of bootleggers and racketeers formerly headed by Tony Lombardo, also assassinated. Lombardo was slain late yesterday as he sat in his home drinking and talking with three unidentified guests. The slayers escaped. Police arrived on the scene a half hour later, after the shooting had been reported to them by an undertaker, summoned by a mysterious telephone call.

A few hours after this slaying, Hugo Maggio, once convicted of murder, was sitting in his car in front of his home when another exploded, one of the occupants firing at Maggio with a sawed cut shotgun. Maggio was seriously wounded, but is expected to recover.

"There is no man who they mean," Maggio told police. "Can't imagine who anyone should want to kill me."

The police, however, have another idea. They believe Maggio may have been one of the men who drank to Lombardo's health and then shot him to death. They are also looking for Joseph Aiello and George "Bugs" Moran, racketeers, allies opposed to the Toledo-Al Capone faction.

Market Unsteady As Nervousness Over Money Rate Is Felt

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS SHOW WEAK TONE

Specialties Strong, with Radio Jumping Up Seven Points

STANDARD LEADS OILS

Studebaker Still Best Performer in Motors, Up Three

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The bulls had the better of the argument in the stock market today, though most of the favorites in the industrial list did not wander far from home, selling within a close range of Tuesday's final close. The copper stocks and prices, with a few of the motor stocks, led the way to the rally, and the price levels, as a whole, were higher than those of the previous day. The copper stocks and prices, with a few of the motor stocks, led the way to the rally, and the price levels, as a whole, were higher than those of the previous day.

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Traces of yesterday's nervousness were still in evidence in the stock market today, and the active industrial stocks exhibited uneasiness over a course with about as many advances as declines. A few of the specialties jumped up one to seven points at the start, Radio taking the lead at 50, and General Electric, Studebaker and the motor stocks, moving up more than three points.

The bulls tried to reassure themselves over the bank rate, which is now the most important outside factor bearing on the stock market, but they have already whispered that there will be no backing up of the rates, provided the bulls do not accept any more stock market fireworks.

The motor stocks, the coppers and the railroad shares, with a few of the specialties, were the first to rally on the effect of speculative selling and to move up into the higher price levels. Studebaker got back to 44 1/2, a rapid turnover; Chrysler was boosted 2 1/2 points to 124 1/2; Hup and Hudson were fairly strong, International Nickel in the metal stocks, equalled its best price of 53 1/2, and Anaconda Copper was a favorite share 1 1/2.

The Standard Oil led a mild rally in the oil list.

Construction Of State Building Once Again Proposed

55 BILLS, 8 JOINT RESOLUTIONS LISTED

Repeal of Pence Act Sought by Senator Bender in Measure

HOUSE, SENATE RECESS

Both Legislative Bodies Will Reconvene Monday Morning

COLUMBUS, Jan. 9.—With the Ohio legislature recessed until Monday, 55 bills and 8 joint resolutions are pending today on the senate and house calendars as a result of the two-day session which terminated late yesterday.

Both legislative branches will reconvene at 10 a. m. Monday. Among the more important bills pending are those providing for construction of a $5,000,000 state office building, appropriation of $25,400,000 of state funds to take care of highways, construction, maintenance and repairs and various operating expenses of the state government during the first half of this year; repeal of the Pence act regulating public utility; licensing auto drivers; establishment of a state department of public safety, and repeal of laws passed at the session two years ago which increased the state gasoline tax, the tax on gross premiums of foreign insurance companies operating in Ohio and the franchise tax levied upon foreign corporations doing business in this state.

Measures Introduced

Measures introduced yesterday include:

In the senate:

By Sen. George H. Bender, Cleveland, proposing amendment to the Ohio constitution so as to permit use of voting machines at elections.

By Sen. Walter G. Nichols, New Philadelphia, licensing auto drivers.

By Sen. Paul Herbert, Columbus, revising state election laws, providing for permanent registration of voters; use of voting machines; preservation of ballots for two years; and authorizing a recount of ballots when a candidate deposits $10 for each precinct involved in such a recount.

By Sen. Joseph Ackerman, Cleveland, to create a state department of public safety to take over general law enforcement work, including the present state prohibition department, film censorship, supervision of licensing motorists, and giving inspectors of the department police powers in territory outside of corporations.

By Senator Bender, repealing the Pence act so as to provide that no rate increase can be collected by any public utility until after a final decision in the case is made by the state utilities commission.

By Sen. Maude C. Wall, Lakewood, providing traveling expenses for municipal officers and employees on official business.

By Sen. L. J. Marshall, Cleveland, to modify the state's incorporation laws in conformity with recommendations of the Ohio Bar association.

By Sen. C. E. Martin, Cincinnati, revising the election laws so as to provide for permanent registration, to safeguard against election frauds, and authorize a recount upon placing a $10 fee for each precinct.

BOY, 15, IN NEW YORK "LOOKING FOR WORK"

Columbus Lad Found Penniless by Police; Money Goes for Shoes, Taxi

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Philip Welker, 15, found grazing wistfully into a Fifth ave. window, chilled and hungry, today told police he lived at Columbus, O., and had come to New York Saturday to look for work. He said his father, in Columbus, had been unemployed for some time, and as the boy's mother and crippled brother had to be supported, Philip had obtained $10 and his fare to New York from his father and had set out for the metropolis to get a job.

The boy said he was unsuccessful in finding work; spent part of his $10 for a pair of shoes that proved too small for him, and then was taken to Brooklyn by a taxicab driver. He declared that the meter on the taxi cost 99 cents and he had only a $2 bill, which he gave to the driver, who offered to find someone to change it and never came back.

The policeman took up a collection, obtained $4 for the boy, fitted him out with a new pair of shoes and sent him to the Children's Society.
